

IEMA Student Membership

The Institute for European and Mediterranean Archaeology (IEMA) welcomes student members from the University at Buffalo and outside institutions. Benefits of IEMA membership include the opportunity to submit articles for publication in Chronika, a chance to present current research to peers and faculty from a range of disciplines in monthly Student Brown Bag series lectures, the opportunity to apply for IEMA Student Research Scholarships, and the ability to link a professional profile to the IEMA website.

Eligibility

IEMA student membership is open to University at Buffalo students of Anthropology, Classics, and Visual Studies. Students from other departments at the University at Buffalo can apply for affiliated membership, by sending a request to the IEMA Governing Board (pbiehl@buffalo.edu).

IEMA student membership is restricted to graduate students, but undergraduate students are encouraged to attend lectures, the annual IEMA Visiting Scholar Conference, and other IEMA events.

Graduate students from outside universities are able to join IEMA, for a fee of $10.

Benefits

Student members of IEMA have access to a number of benefits. These benefits are designed in order to help students further their own research, and also to gain experience presenting their work and publishing it. Student members of IEMA can:

- Submit an article to Chronika, the IEMA graduate student journal
- Access an online version of Chronika
- Present current fieldwork and research in monthly Brown Bag talks
- Apply for an IEMA Student Research Scholarship, to support archaeological fieldwork and research
- Link a professional profile to the IEMA website (UB students only)
- Receive a discount of 40% off the purchase price of IEMA Publications (UB students only)

IEMA student membership is free to students at the University at Buffalo. Students from outside universities may join IEMA for a fee of $10. Then, they can submit articles to be considered for publication in Chronika, and can present their research in an IEMA Student Brown Bag series lecture. Travel expenses to and from Buffalo, NY are not covered by IEMA.

The recipients of an IEMA Student Research Scholarship will file a 3-5-page report with the IEMA Director; this report will be submitted Chronika for possible publication. In addition, the recipient will give an IEMA Student Brown Bag series Lecture within one academic year of the completion of research.
